Hi Antonia,

Re. my below question to Sean, perhaps I can give you a call tomorrow when convenient. There are a couple of areas where it would be good to see if there's any further useful information -

- The first is my comment to Sean below where we have seen indication that Filetek Storhouse may have been purchased for a deal with BOA/Merrill - looking at the rebasing spreadsheet there is at least one large deal with BOA in Q1 2010 which we haven't covered in our review but I may need a little help pinpointing the contract from worksite as there were a lot of contracts (I have also asked Lucy to pull the sales invoice relating to it).

- Also, Deloitte mention in the Q2 2010 audit committee notes that there was evidence of revenue being generated from Filetek in regard to a Kraft deal. Again, looking at the rebasing spreadsheet it didn't seem that there were any particularly large deals with Kraft but perhaps we can discuss (perhaps its even possible to figure out what information Deloitte would have seen).

Anyway, will give you a call tomorrow to discuss.

Many thanks!

Rebecca

RE: Product question

That's impossible for me to answer I'm afraid as I wasn't part of the deal, or the subsequent hosting of Merrill's operations. My only involvement was in the initial evaluation of the technology.

The only other information that I have is that the Digital Safe dev manager told you that no instance of StorHouse has ever been deployed into production.

Hi Sean,

Further to the below, we have come across documentation which suggests that the second unlimited purchase of FileTek StorHouse software (around Q1/Q2 2010) was required because of business granted to Autonomy by Bank of America in respect of Merrill (suggesting that Autonomy had already exhausted its purchase in Q4 2009).

Does this seem likely to you that the second purchase of StorHouse would therefore have been necessary, (given that the first purchase was for 166 licenses for approximately 60 customers?)

Many thanks

Rebecca

And would it make sense to you that Storhouse software would/could be OEM'd into IDOL SPE (I know we had previously discussed how it would be a fit for Digital Safe or Introspect but we hadn't discussed SPE)?

Many thanks

DS archives data of all sorts into IDOL. In this case that would include archiving structured to IDOL SPE.

Hi Sean,

I hope all is well with you? I had a technical question which I had put to Antonia (below), she suggested you might be able to explain to me. I've repeated below for ease:

- I saw mentioned that the Storhouse software could/would have been OEM'd into an Autonomy SPE product and didn't know if this was something completely different from DigitalSafe which we'd been talking about before (and which is where we thought the product was being OEM'd) or if it was the same thing? (I know the technical paper written by Pete Mennell, for example, mentions "Autonomy's SPE powered DigitalSafe" but am not clear on what this means).

- If it is something separate, is it possible to get a layman's explanation of what the SPE product is about?

Many thanks

Rebecca

You could try Sean BLanchflower or Fernando Lucini for an explanation.
